

NAME: Josh Clark
PARTY: Republican
SEEKING: U.S. Senate

1. Why are you seeking your office?

Quite frankly, I felt that the Lord was calling me to step up and run for this Senate seat. I believe that politics is a season of service, not a career. That's why I stepped down from the Georgia House unopposed after two terms and that's how I will conduct myself in Washington, D.C. I'm not seeking to enhance my own fortune and influence. I will be there to fight for liberty and the values that made America great! I cannot stand by and see them destroyed for our children and future generations.

2. What do you expect to accomplish if elected?

I hope to accomplish three things: Passing good laws, stopping bad laws, and stripping out bad laws that should never have been passed to begin with! By design, our federal government was to be less powerful than the States in the daily lives of our citizens. The exact opposite has come to pass as our central federal power has grown and encroached into every area of life. It's time to make sure Congress gets back to the business of the Constitution, staying inside the lanes of their enumerated powers.

3. What distinguishes your candidacy?

I am the only candidate in this race with legislative experience, and that's a big deal. Lawmaking is different than regulatory policy crafting from the executive side and it's even different than building a business or playing sports. There is value in all of those endeavors, but the debating, influencing, and relationship building of a legislature is a very unique skill. I have been successful in the legislative world and I have the energy and influence to get to work on day one in Congress.

4. Pick any one issue. Expand on how you will address it.

The crippling crisis at our southern border is allowing drug smugglers, human traffickers, terrorists, and asylum racketeers to flow freely into our nation. This affects every aspect of Americans' lives across the country. It's time to finish the border wall and empower our Border Patrol with the policies and manpower they need to stop illegal entries and properly vet those entering legally. Congress also should reevaluate the numbers of legal immigration and asylum seekers to ensure we can protect the American dream for all citizens and immigrants alike! Our sovereignty and prosperity is on the line.

5. What are your ideas on curbing all the many area-wide shooting?

While this is a complex, multi-faceted issue to face, there are key things we can do to address it.

First, we must stop soft-on-crime prosecutors who don't put away dangerous, violent offenders or keep them off the streets where innocents are caught in the crossfire. Second, we need to make sure that at every opportunity in the scope of gun laws, we are enabling law-abiding citizens to defend themselves. A well-armed populace deters would-be criminals who must consider their own safety every time they choose to victimize an innocent person.

6. Please give a 100 word summary on your background.

I am a lifelong Georgia Republican and business owner who was raised with the American values of faith in God, hard work, and serving others. I married my childhood sweetheart and together we're raising our six kids with those same values. I have started multiple businesses that are thriving still today, and I served two terms in the Georgia state House before self-term limiting though I was unopposed. Because I believe that public office is about service, not insider knowledge and self-enrichment, my wife and I sold all our stocks at the outset of this campaign.
